NEW SCENES AT LOCAL THEATRE

Manager Goss Has Scenic Artist and Decorators Working at Orpheum

When Orpheum theatre patrons attend the performance of "Clarence" early next month, making the opening of the 1920-21 theatrical season, they will be greeted by a completely renovated theatre and a stage with its settings, hangings and drops completely replaced with colorful new scenes.

During the past few weeks while the playhouse has been dark Manager J. F. Goss has had a corps of decorators at work going over the entire theatre.

Probably the greatest interest will be in the new curtains and drops now being painted by Ferdinand Martin, New York scenic artist who has been at work at the local theatre for six weeks.

He has already completed three new curtains with wings and hangings and before he finishes his contract here in another month, he will have replaced the entire set of scenery at the theatre.

Mr. Martin is a scenic artist of note. He maintains his New York studio during the winter and through the summer when many of the theatres close down, he goes about the country painting and refreshing their scenery. From Ogden he will go to Los Angeles. He just completed a contract in Denver.

The artist said he may transfer a scene from Ogden canyon to one of the local curtains. Up to now he has had no time to make his sketches. But he is struck with the beauty of Ogden's famous gorge and may take several sketches of various scenes with him to paint at other places.

Interesting Facts About Jack London's Life

Jack London was born in San Francisco, Jan. 12, 1876.

What little schooling he enjoyed, he received in Oakland, Cal.

At the age of 17 he shipped before the mast as an able seaman, visiting Japan and the Bering Sea.

In 1897, London joined the first stampede to the Klondike.

London's first stories were published in the Overland Monthly. His first bound volume, "The Son of the Wolf," was published in 1900.

In 1905 he started on a seven years' around the world in a 50-foot ketch built for him by a friend.

London was married twice; his second wife being Charmian Kittredge, whom he met in the London ranch near Glen Ellen, Sonoma County, California. "The Valley of the Moon," "The Call of the Wild," "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," "The God of his Fathers," "Martin Eden," "John Barleycorn" and "The Cruise of the Snark" are but a few of the many stories which were the result of his experiences in the Klondike rush.

Jack London died in the year 1916 after an adventurous career which carried him to all corners of the earth.

"Burning Daylight" now showing at Utah theatre is a story such as Jack London alone could write. We urge you not to miss it. And Larry Simon comedy on same bill.

SUMS UP RESULT OF SPA PARLEY

Is the Beginning of Many Big Things Declares Premier Lloyd George

SPA, Belgium, July 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—The conference here between the allied chiefs and the representatives of Germany is the beginning of big things, Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, declared today in summing up the result of the last fortnight's sharp fencing with the Germans.

"We will do our best to carry out the agreements entered into here," Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister said.

Premier Lloyd George indicated that he had a high opinion of both Konstantin Fehrenbach, German chancellor and Dr. Simons.

Mr. Lloyd George said it would have been an immense advantage if Americans had participated in the conference, because, he added, they would have brought to it a viewpoint free from European rivalries.

"Might not the European statesmen find the Americans embarrassing if they took an active part in the settlement of all questions?" Mr. Lloyd George was asked. He replied he did not think so. The power of America, he said, was the power of the future. He said that the spirit of fair play would be of tremendous value to Europe, he said.

Dr. Simons declared he was apprehensive of disturbances in the Ruhr region.

"Trouble is likely to come next week," said he, "unless we can take measures to feed the miners at the same time that we ask them to work harder."

Hermes, our food minister, to send all available foodstuffs to the Ruhr immediately. I have written to the food ministers of France, Belgium and Great Britain and Italy, urging them to do all that is possible to get more food into the Ruhr within two weeks."

FIRST AIR FUNERAL HELD. ASHES THROWN TO WINDS

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK.—Probably the strangest funeral that ever took place in New York was held recently for Mrs. Sarah P. Brown, a temperance worker and writer of children's stories.

It was the first aerial funeral held here. Mrs. Brown's body was cremated and an urn containing the ashes was taken to the pier at Eighty-sixth street, Hudson river. After funeral services on the pier, Miss Kate Brown, daughter of Mrs. Brown, handed the urn to an undertaker and her brother gave nine white carnations and two red ones, symbolizing the ninety-two years of Mrs. Brown's life to Lieutenant Frank Mallen of the marines.

Lieutenant Mallen and the undertaker boarded a seaplane which left the pier at noon and flew over the Statue of Liberty. The urn was scattered the ashes over the statue and Lieutenant Mallen dropped the urn in the air and the plane flew back.

This disposition of her remains was dictated by Mrs. Brown in a letter written seven years ago, sealed and unopened until after death.
